

FOUR DIED ON GALLOWS TODAY FOR THEIR CRIMES

STICK-UP AND ROBBERY HERE DURING NIGHT

Salesman Relieved of $10.50; Store Loot Was Total of $26

R. L. Allen, a salesman, rooming at 506 Peoria avenue, reported to the police about 10:15 last evening of having been held up and robbed on Peoria Avenue between Second and Third streets by a roughly dressed and unkempt stranger who halted him, flourished a luger automatic pistol and relieved him of $10.50. The stickup man paid no attention to a diamond ring and valuable watch carried by the victim.

Allen described the holdup man as being about five foot, ten inches tall, unshaven and unkempt, wearing a black ragged overcoat and dark cap. After being relieved of his money, the salesman was ordered to stand still, while the stranger hurried across lots and escaped. The police made a thorough search for a stranger answering the description furnished by Allen but were unsuccessful in locating any such an individual.

Paint Store Robbed.

Chief Van Bibber this morning was called to the Better Paint Store on First street, where it was reported that the cash register had been rifled of its contents during the night and $26.75 taken. An investigation failed to disclose any evidence as to how entrance was gained to the store. None of the doors or windows apparently had been tampered with and the stock in the store room was undisturbed. All of the doors and windows of the store were locked when the place was opened for business this morning.

CARLSTROM TO KEEP INTEREST SUITS EXTANT

Asks Judge to Retain Russel and Sterling Suits on Docket

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Attorney Oscar E. Carlstrom has asked the Circuit Judge Charles Briggie of Sangamon county to retain the state interest suits against Fred E. Sterling of Rockford and Andrew Russell of Jacksonville on the court docket.

Sterling and Russell were State Treasurers, following Len Small in that office, and suits alleging misuse of interest on state funds were filed against them at the same time the so-called "Small tax-accounting suit" was begun in 1921.

The suit against Small was prosecuted and finally settled out of court for a consideration of $650,000 paid by the former State Treasurer and Governor to the state. On January 7 of this year, in cleaning up his docket, Judge Briggie served notice on Carlstrom to show cause why the suits should not be dropped, and Carlstrom's answer asking that they be retained, was filed today.

The original bills filed against Sterling and Russell by former Attorney General Edward D. Brundage charged that Sterling failed to account for more than a million dollars in interest, an dhat Russell failed to turn over to the state nearly $200,000 in interest.

Edw. Seyfarth Died Suddenly this Morn

Edward Seyfarth, 208 E. Fellows street, Dixon commercial traveler, died very suddenly at Vinton, Iowa, at 10:30 o'clock this morning, a message received by his wife just before noon stated. The telegram gave no details of his death. Further particulars and funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Chicago Firemen in Hard Battle Today

Chicago, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Fire of mysterious origin virtually destroyed a four story brick building at 701 to 725 Fulton market early today, causing a loss estimated at $500,000. Forty eight pieces of apparatus were employed in fighting the blaze. The structure housed offices of several tool manufacturing firms.

There remain approximately 184,000,000 acres of unappropriated public lands in the United States, exclusive of the Territory of Alaska.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Representative Robert Scholes of Peoria, Speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives last session, again was to be honored by Illinois sportsmen today.

In recognition of Mr. Scholes' life-long work for conservation, he was named by Speaker David Shanahan earlier this week to be chairman of the House Committee on fish and game, although he is too ill to attend the session. So the committee's work will not be hampered, a precedent was established with the appointment of a vice-chairman, Henry C. Allen of Lyndon.

Today a committee headed by Mr. Allen was to deliver a letter to Mr. Scholes, expressing pleasure at his appointment. Accompanying the vice chairman were Representative Martin B. TEN LASALLE CO. MEN INDICTED IN FEDERAL COURTS

Charged With Conspiracy to Violate the Prohibition Laws

Chicago, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Frank Urbanowski, wealthy wholesale grocer of Peru, Ill., and nine other residents of LaSalle county, were indicted today by the federal grand jury here on charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition laws in connection with the seizure last month of two large stills, and a large quantity of alcohol and mash in raids by federal prohibition agents in Peru.

The indictment is in one count and charges conspiracy to possess, transport, sell and manufacture intoxicating liquor between January 1, 1927, and January 9, 1928. The others named in the indictment obtained on evidence presented to the grand jury by Victor La Rue, Assistant United States District Attorney, in the first phase of a sweeping investigation of conditions in La Salle county, follow:

Those Indicted

Hugo Ferroni, alleged by the government to be a lieutenant of A. Capone, Chicago gangster, and in charge of the stills raided.

Candido Piccoli, Guilio Bolilli, Gaetano and Lewis Orlandini, Jack Collins and Lino Tognoni, alleged to have been employed in the two stills.

James Green of Peru and Davenport, Iowa, alleged to have transported liquor from Peru to Davenport, Iowa.

A. J. Conway, a salesman for Urbanowski's grocery firm.

Urbanowski, the government alleges, among the overt acts recited, rented one of the buildings, in which the stills were found, to Ferroni and furnished the syndicate with 30,000 pounds of sugar purchased at Clinton, Iowa, and with yeast and hundreds of containers for the alcohol.

The government also alleges that he supplied them with water and light.

Sold to Capone Gang

The syndicate, Mr. La Rue declared, was controlled by Ferroni, and the government alleges that it sold most of its output, estimated at more than 100,000 gallons of alcohol a year, to the Capone gang in Chicago.

Mr. La Rue said the syndicate had been in operation long before the time specified in the indictment but the government had been unable to obtain information before that time.

Nearly $100,000 in Peru and LaSalle banks credited to the account of some of the defendants has been attached by the government.

The Orlandini brothers and Jack Collins have not been arrested but the others were seized at the time of the raids or shortly after. During two weeks spent by the grand jury in investigating the case, it was reported that evidence was heard involving public officials and government authorities indicated that the matter may be pursued further.

ILLINOIS WIDOW ADMITS KILLING HUSBY IN FIGHT

Belleville Woman to be Formally Charged With Murder

Belleville, Ill., Feb. 1.—(AP)—State's Attorney Hilmar C. Lindauer today filed a murder charge against Mrs. May Raetz, 32, Belleville confectionery proprietor, in connection with the death of her husband, William Raetz, 23, in their home New Year's Eve.

The charge was filed following the grilling of Mrs. Raetz almost all night last night during which she was said by the State's Attorney to have given a new story about the death of her husband, a steel mill worker in Granite City.

Raetz was found shot in the temple in his home when police were called New Year's Eve. Mrs. Raetz said at that time her husband had shot himself accidentally when he dropped a revolver he intended firing in celebration of the New Year.

Later, according to information given the prosecutor, she said her husband had shot and killed himself after they had quarreled.

Her story last night, Lindauer said today, was that she and her husband had quarreled and that she scuffled with him in attempting to prevent him from leaving the house to fire the revolver in celebration of the New Year. In the scuffle, she said, she accidentally struck the revolver with her arm and it was discharged, the bullet striking her husband in the temple.

Lindauer said he reopened the investigation when he learned Raetz had taken out a $2,000 life insurance policy with his wife as the beneficiary only ten days before his death.

FIFTEEN BELOW MARKED ADVENT OF THIS MONTH

Tomorrow is Groundhog Day Cloudy is Prediction

February's debut brought no relief from the old-fashioned winter weather which characterized January, the mercury dropping to 15 below zero during the night, according to the official government thermometer.

Shuck & Bates, keepers of the official government thermometer here, report that on seventeen days during January the mercury dropped to zero or below. On fourteen of these days the instrument registered below zero and on three days zero was the low mark. The average temperature for the month was 15.69—almost 16 degrees—above zero. The mean maximum was 28.84 above and the mean minimum was 2.55.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Zero threw winter for another loss today; the seventh this year.

A biting wind and snow had left the mercury unsteady in the early hours when it fell below the mark but the government meteorologist promised a rising temperature later in the day.

Clear skies and gentle variable winds were promised but tomorrow—Groundhog Day—is another matter.

Saturday's forecast is for an overcast sky but with a temperature that is not too cold.

Nebraska and Iowa were buried yesterday in a snowstorm that reached the proportions of a blizzard. Rescue crews, however, succeeded in plowing a path to the virtually isolated village of Colesburg, Ia.

Cold in "Egypt"

Harrisburg, Ill., Feb. 1.—(AP)—The temperature dropped to 7 degrees above zero this morning, the lowest mark reached this winter.

Fruit growers and farmers reported that fruit and wheat still is in excellent condition.

HOUSE DEFEATED INCREASED DRY FUND AFTER TALK

Bill, as Passed by Upper House is Sent to Conference

Washington, February 1.—(AP)—Twice the amended first deficiency bill, carrying with it $24,000,000 for prohibition enforcement, has gone before the House, and twice it has been shunted aside. Supporters of the fund have sought a direct vote on the amendment but after an extended argument yesterday, the measure today was on its way to conference with the Senate.

A proposal designed to keep the bill from conference was beaten in the House 240 to 141 and this was taken as a victory for those who believe, as Secretary Mellon believes, that the $24,000,000 would do more harm than good.

Party Ranks Broken

While supporters of the $24,000,000 ran far behind in the voting they had an opportunity to discuss the fund and prohibition generally and in turn they were answered by the opposition. Party ranks were broken in the debate and some wets and dries found themselves in what could be considered enemy camps.

Forty-five Democrats joined with 194 Republicans in voting down the proposal to keep the bill from conference and with them went the only Socialist in Congress, Berger of Wisconsin. Ten Republicans sided with 129 Democrats in supporting the motion and they had the aid of two Farmer-Labor members. The motion to send the bill to conference carried without a roll call.

Mellon Is Attacked

During the debate yesterday there were many charges and counter-charges. Secretary Mellon, as is usual when there is an argument over prohibition in Congress, was accused of favoring wet interests and in turn he found defenders.

As an illustration of divergent opinion by wets on the fund, LaGuardia, Republican, New York, said it was a step necessary toward the $200,000,000 or $300,000,000 yearly prohibition appropriation necessary to convince the people that the dry law could not be enforced.

Lanthicum, Democrat, Maryland, said he opposed the fund because there was enough "snooping and spying" under the present appropriation.

Whether the House will vote directly on the amendment depends on conference action.

CRUISER BILL'S TIME CLAUSE IS APT TO BE RETAINED

Coolidge's Foes on Bill Claim They Have Support

WHAT CONGRESS IS DOING (By The Associated Press)

House considers Navy supply bill, Senate cruiser bill.

Senate Interstate Commerce committee holds hearings on Copper grain rates resolution.

House Ways and Means committee continues hearings on cotton tariffs.

House Banking and Currency committee considers farm loans to co-operative associations.

Washington, February 1.—(AP)—Friends of the naval construction program confidently predicted today after a careful survey of the Senate that the clause specifying a start on the 15 cruisers before 1931 would be retained notwithstanding the appeal of President Coolidge for its elimination.

Senator Watson of Indiana, the prospective Republican leader succeeding Vice President-elect Curtis, has taken sides with Chairman Hale of the Naval committee, in charge of the bill. With Senator Swanson of Virginia, ranking Democrat on the Naval committee, they have been marshalling forces for the final test.

Claim to Have Votes

The trio declared today they had votes to keep the time clause in the bill. There have been rumors reaching the Capitol that the President might veto the naval bill if this time clause were not eliminated, giving him control over the cruiser program, but these have been countered by predictions that a veto could be overridden.

Since the Senate started the agreement earlier in the week to limit debate, beginning Monday, on the bill, thereby assuring a final vote early next week, the contest has settled down mainly to cloak-room conferences looking to the line-up of the time clause contest. Mr. Coolidge lost on this issue in the House and if the bill goes through the Senate in its present form, the House is expected to accept the minor amendments already voted by the Senate and send it directly to the President without a conference.

Jury Seeking Data on Many Contracts

Chicago, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Cook county's special grand jury today looked to Edward J. Kelly for a word about something like $1,000,000 worth of contracts of the Chicago Sanitary District.

Martin J. O'Brien, former Chief Clerk, told the jury that Kelly approved all the contracts before they were let by trustees during the old regime, when more than 4000 names were carried on the payrolls. He gave prosecutors the records of 14 contracts let last year.

The jury was told that O'Brien did not want the office of Chief Clerk but that he was persuaded to accept it by Democratic leaders to keep party harmony.

Representative Arthur Roe, Vandallia, Ill., was another witness in connection with the payroll investigation. He said he was paid $4000 for legal services in connection with the Illinois river damage suits. He voted for the legislative tax and bond bills favoring the district, he admitted, but did so believing the legislation was needed.

Of the $50,883,694 spent by the district last year, $10,251,672 went for payrolls, statistics show, expenditures exceeded receipts by $1,200,000.

A total of $117,394 has been appropriated to pay salaries of employees, now on the payroll, for their first pay since Dec. 20.

Terse Items of News Gathered in Dixon During Day

FIRE ALARM TODAY.

The fire department responded to an alarm at 10:30 this morning, making a run to the home of Mrs. Julia Hoban, 313 W. Sixth street, where an overheated furnace had caused some alarm. There was no damage to the property.

A CORRECTION.

The meeting of officers of the Sixth Regiment Volunteer Infantry Ass'n. and officials of the Dixon Chamber of Commerce, to be held here Sunday afternoon for the purpose of arranging for the annual reunion of the association in Dixon this year, will be held at the G. A. R. hall instead of the Chamber of Commerce office, as announced in last evening's Telegraph.

AMBOY HERE TONIGHT.

The Amboy high school basketball team will furnish the opposition to the Dixon heavyweight squad in the gymnasium of the south side high school this evening. Last week, Dixon won from Amboy and the squad from that city will attempt to avenge that defeat this evening. Tomorrow evening both the light and heavyweight squads will journey to Mt. Morris to engage in a double bill with the high school squad of that place.

RABBIT SEASON CLOSED.

Yesterday was the last day of the rabbit hunting season in the northern zone, which includes Dixon territory. Hunters reported a better crop of cotton tails than in the two preceding seasons, but during the month of January, the hunting was far from being good. The rabbits "holed up" and were hard to find. As the season neared its close the bunnies plainly showed signs of not having been able to get sufficient food and carried practically no fat.

SIX ENGINEMEN DIED IN CRASH OF TWO TRAINS

No Passengers Reportedly Seriously Hurt in Collision

Henderson, Ky., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Six members of two train crews were reported killed eight miles from here this morning when passenger train No. 146 on the Louisville Henderson & St. Louis Railroad crashed head-on into a freight. The men killed were buried in the wreckage and only one body had been recovered.

Doctors and an ambulance were rushed to the scene from here. It was reported that no passengers were injured seriously, but the conductor of the passenger was taken to a hospital in a serious condition. The cause of the crash was unknown.

The smash-up occurred at a sharp curve known as Posey's cut, on the main line of the railroad. No. 146 was due in Louisville at 7:15 a. m.

The six trainmen reported killed were the engineer, fireman and two baggagemen of the passenger and the fireman and engineer of the freight. The body of one fireman had been recovered.

Major's Contest is Dismissed by Judge

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Difficulties that beset any one who would seek a recount of ballots cast for a district Congressman were indicated here today when the contest of Earl J. Major of Hillsboro against his fellow townsman, Frank M. Ramey, Congressman-elect, was dismissed by Federal Judge Fitzherry.

The dismissal was on motion of Major's attorney, L. E. Stone of Springfield, who indicated he would refile the case as an original petition in the state Supreme Court. He would petition for a writ of mandamus to compel the Sangamon County Election Commission to produce ballots cast in the Congressional election, for recount.

According to V. Y. Dallman of the election commission here, there are plenty of laws about recount, but none that indicate definitely the method by which a congressional recount may be accomplished.

Would-be City Dad Arrested as Thief

Chicago, Feb. 1.—(AP)—One of Chicago's candidates for alderman at the spring election has been arrested, charged with stealing bread.

Leroy Koski, who seeks to represent the 13th ward in the city council, was locked up after C. Reed, a bakery wagon driver, reported seeing him and two other men remove bread from in front of a store where the driver had left it.

Police said Koski's aldermanic ambition is sponsored by John (Ding-bat) Oberla.

MRS. ADA LEBOUFF AND HER DOCTOR LOVER DIE AT NOON; TWO MEN HANGED IN ST. LOUIS

Missouri's Slayers Die New Orleans Lovers Simultaneously Early Went To Gallows Calmly Today

St. Louis, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Leonard R. Yeager, 31, and Thomas Lowry, 23, convicted of murder, were hanged simultaneously in the city jail here early today, for the slaying of a bystander in a holdup November 17, and Lowry for the killing of a motorcycle officer September 25, 1926. The traps were sprung at 6:19 o'clock.

Both men went to the gallows with outward calm and the double execution was carried out speedily, with a small group of official witnesses and newspaper men in the death chamber. Neither man made a statement from the gallows.

Spent Sleepless Night

They had spent a sleepless night, both clinging to a slender hope that Gov. Henry S. Caulfield would grant a last minute reprieve.

Yeager shot and killed Connors Schou, an elderly tailor, who was passing through a saloon at the time Yeager and a companion, Maurice Birmingham, were holding up the establishment. Birmingham is serving a life sentence.

Lowry shot and killed Motorcycle Officer Eugene Lovely while the officer was attempting to arrest him for speeding. Lowry had served one prison term for burglary.

Executioner Unknown

Spiritual advisers remained with the condemned men throughout the night and until the execution.

The traps were sprung by one of five deputy sheriffs who pushed five buttons. Only one of which was connected to spring the traps. None knew who the executioner was.

Lowry was pronounced dead at 6:30 o'clock and Yeager at 6:34. Their bodies were claud by their mothers, Yeager's to be taken to his mother's home in Cline, Ill., and Lowry to be buried here.

SECOND SAILFISH
HOOVER'S DESIRE
AS HE SETS OUT

Captured Big One Thursday. He is Having a Happy Vacation

Associated Press Sports Writer
Long Key, Fla., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Having landed his first sailfish—a 45 pounder—President-elect Hoover returned today to the edge of the Gulf Stream with the hope of landing an even larger one.

On his second venture after one of the gamest of Florida fish, Mr. Hoover had selected as his companions James F. Goodrich, former Governor of Indiana, and Verne Marshall of Cedar Rapids, Ia., two of the guests on his fishing expedition.

When he captured his first sailfish yesterday, Mr. Hoover's fishing companions were Associate Justice Harlan F. Stone of the United States Supreme Court, and Jeremiah Milbank of New York, eastern treasurer of the Republican National Committee.

Weather conditions continued favorable for the second day of the catch, which included beside the sailfish, a number of bonita, tuna, amberjack, groupers and barracuda.

More than 100 varieties of fish have been taken by Mr. Hoover thus far in his two expeditions to the Florida Keys.

With rest and relaxation his chief aim during his vacation, the President-elect fishes from the easy depths of an army chair on top of the deck of the motor launch, which cruises slowly as his line trawls in the wake of the boat. A few feet away, a decoy, wooden fish, painted a bright color, floats on the surface of the water to attract the attention of the sailfish, the fish Mr. Hoover is especially anxious to land.

JOHN D., SENIOR OUT FLATLY FOR
SON IN BATTLE

A Formal Statement Announces His Help in Ouster Move

New York, Feb. 1.—(AP)—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., today stood shoulder to shoulder with his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in the fight to oust Colonel Robert W. Stewart of Chicago from the chairmanship of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

Support for his son's cause was announced in a statement issued from the Rockefeller offices, 26 Broadway.

Mr. Stewart, who had said he would not believe John D. Rockefeller would desire his removal from the Indiana Oil chairmanship until he saw "positive proof of it" was in the city on a secret visit when the statement was issued. He refused to comment on any phase of the controversy.

The elder Rockefeller in the first formal statement he has issued in ten years, said:

"The press has several times reported a statement from Colonel Robert W. Stewart to the effect that John D. Rockefeller, Sr., would be pleased by the reelection of Colonel Stewart as a director of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. Mr. Rockefeller, Sr., has been informed that many people in the west have been misled by this report. For this reason Mr. Rockefeller, Sr., thinks it necessary to make this statement:

Owens No Stock

"Mr. Rockefeller, Sr., owns no stock in the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. He feels that his son has proceeded only with the earnest desire to do that which will be best for the trust welfare of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and for large corporate interests in general. Mr. Rockefeller, Sr., agrees with this and does not see how his son could have done otherwise. He has proceeded with deliberation and patience and with the utmost consideration for the feelings of all parties concerned. It has been an unpleasant duty for him, but one which in all good conscience he could not shirk."

The statement was issued after an exchange of telegrams and cables among Mr. Rockefeller, Sr., who is at his winter home at Ormond Beach, Fla., and his son now traveling in Egypt and their associates here.

IS IT SAD?

A 65-year-old telephone operator died in a little Ohio town the other day. In the poor home in which she had lived alone and in supposed poverty they found hundreds of boxes, some opened and some unopened, of the richest, most exotic and luxurious silks and perfumes and all the utterly useless frivolities dear to women. There were so many bundles that there was no room in the house for the funeral.

MAIL PILOT IS FOUND DEAD IN WRECKED PLANE

Lost Way in Fog Over Mountains: Native of Illinois

Morgantown, W. Va., Feb. 1.—(AP)—A career that embodied piloting in the World War, through air circus stunting to air mail flying came to an abrupt end on Tar Mountain early today with the death of Eugene Cecil, 35, Cleveland-Pittsburgh mail plane pilot.

Cecil, it is thought, became lost in the fog hanging over Carnegie, Pa., and mistook the Monongahela river for the Ohio river, causing him to fly southward towards West Virginia instead of northward to his home port, Bettis Field, McKeesport, a few miles from Carnegie.

The plane was seen over Morgantown shortly before midnight. Next a crash was heard and searching parties started out.

Early today the plane, mail intact and the pilot dead in his cockpit, was found in a clearing atop a mountain peak. In his pocket was found a note: "Failed to stop at Youngstown because of darkness." The plane had turned over in landing.

The body was removed to Morgantown and the mail was taken in charge by state police. Cecil was a native of Villa Grove, Ill., but had resided in McKeesport, his home station, since entering the mail service.

Decatur Bootlegger Enters Guilty Plea

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Having suddenly ended a prospective legal battle by pleading guilty to violation of prohibition laws, Conrad "Butch" Blenz, reputed leader of "night life activities" in Decatur, today has a week of grace before starting his three months jail sentence.

The Decatur man withdrew his not guilty plea last night, and was assessed a fine of $500 and sentenced to three months in the Springfield city prison. Facing 13 charges, Blenz pleaded guilty after the District Attorney agreed to drop eight of them.

An unofficial computation shows that Federal Judge Louis Fitzhenry has assessed approximately $12,000 in fines during the present session of court on pleas of guilty to violating prohibition laws. Jail sentences total approximately 34 months.

SONG OF A WINTER DAY

MORNING clear, with frosty light
From sunbeams late and low;
They shine upon the snow
So white,
And shine back from the snow.

Down tusks of ice one drop will go,
Nor fall, at sunny noon
Twill hang a diamond—fade, and grow
An opal for the moon.

And when the bright sad sun is low
Behind the mountain dome,
A twilight wind will come and blow
All round the children's home.

And puff and waft the powdery snow,
As feet unseen did pass,
But waiting in its bed below
Green lies the summer grass.

—George MacDonald, Poems.

Foreign Mothers are Learning Good English

Chicago, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Foreign speaking mothers of the "mixed neighborhoods" in Chicago, are learning to speak good English through the efforts of associations affiliated with the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Extent of this influence was indicated today in a WMAQ radio address by Mrs. Grace Gentile, president of the association, in the Frank Gunsaulus school district, whose 1,600 pupils are largely drawn from the closely populated section about 45th street and South Sacramento.

"When it was suggested that a Parent-Teacher association be formed," Mrs. Gentile said, "some of our patrons held up their hands in horror, but at the first called meeting we had 75."

"Many do not realize the smallness of our school districts. The Gunsaulus school district extends from 42nd street south to 47th, east to Fairfield, west to Central Park. In this very small space we have five parochial schools, three Polish, one Lithuanian, one German and not a Protestant church in the district. We have one mother, who happens to be my vice president, who is associated in four parent-teacher associations, having four children in four different schools, one high school, two junior highs and one grammar school."

"Many parents indicated they could not speak English at all. This was a great handicap. Upon visiting them, however, it was found that if encouraged they could speak English very brokenly, but had been discouraged by their children, who were ashamed of their mistakes."

"This was a pitiful situation. It is amazing today how much better some of these mothers speak, and their sociability has increased 75 percent upon their mingling with active members who speak English."

WERE DINNER GUESTS AT HOWELL HOME—

Mrs. B. T. Morehouse, Mrs. L. A. Brown, and Miss Nova Morehouse of Sterling, were dinner guests Tuesday evening of Hubert Howell, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Howell in Dixon. Afterwards they attended the concert given in the Christian church on the new organ built by their host.

The church has extended an invitation to Miss Morehouse to appear in an organ concert there sometime next month.

Daughters Union Veterans Meeting

The Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War met in G. A. R. hall Thursday evening at 7:30. A school of instruction was held. Afterwards refreshments were served and a social hour followed.

LADIES AUXILIARY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH TO MEET—

A regular meeting of the Auxiliary to the Presbyterian church will be held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Oliver Rogers, 523 Everett street.

BREAKFAST—Apple sauce, cereal cooked with figs, cream, crisp toast, creamed eggs, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Parsnip soufflé, rye bread, hearts of celery, fruit tapoca pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER—Baked halibut steaks, cottage fried potatoes, stewed tomatoes with croutons, stuffed pepper ring salad, grape sponge, milk, coffee.

Parsnip soufflé is a good way to serve this often despised winter vegetable.

Parsnip Soufflé
Four medium-sized parsnips, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon sugar, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 2 eggs.

Scrub parsnips and cook until tender in boiling water. Remove skins and put through a vegetable ricer or rub through a colander. Season with salt, pepper, sugar and 1 tablespoon butter. Melt remaining butter in sauce pan, stir in flour and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Cook, stirring until thick and smooth. Remove from fire and add prepared parsnips. Add yolks of eggs beaten until thick and lemon colored. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry and fold into mixture. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake 25 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve at once of the soufflé will fall.

Regensburg, Bavaria, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Two branches of an ancient European royal house were agreed today that love rather than matters of policy, should be the controlling factor in matrimony.

Princess Ila, of the Bohemian branch of the House of Thurn und Taxis, left Prince Raphael Raniar of the Bavarian branch of the same house waiting at the altar yesterday with the tearful explanation that her heart was "engaged to another."

But far from a tendency to coerce her to go through with the ceremony—which had reached the stage where the participants were merely awaiting the reading of the service—the heads of the two branches of the family gave their sanction to the action of the Princess. There was regret that the family name should have become involved in sensational publicity but there seemed to be some relief that the pretty princess, who is 24, should have discovered her feelings while there was yet time.

Today the Princess was on her way back to her Czech-Slovakian estates, while others wondered who the other man in the affair might be.

Meeting of W. R. C. Held January 27th

The Woman's Relief Corps, No. 212, held their regular meeting on Monday, Jan. 28 in G. A. R. hall. The meeting was called to order by the new president, Mrs. Maude Hobbs, with most of the officers filling their stations for the first time.

The secretary and treasurer's reports were read and approved. Three applications for membership were read.

The treasurer, Mrs. Albertine McKenney was installed in her station. The president appointed her committees and chairmen for the different months of the year. The Corps voted to give $10 to the World War fund. Mrs. A. McKenney read her treasurer's yearly report, which was approved. The charter was draped for a deceased member.

As Mrs. M. Jones was chairman of the program committee, Mrs. Hobbs, the president, requested her to take charge of the program in commemoration of President McKinley's birthday.

Miss Mary Hintz at the piano, Mrs. Nesbeth, violin, and Miss Hoffman, cello, formed a trio.

Mrs. M. Jones read a sketch of the life of McKinley.

Miss Hintz, Mrs. Nesbeth and Miss Hoffman gave two selections, Serenade and The Roseary.

A reading was given by Mrs. Maria Stackpole on President McKinley's life.

The meeting closed in regular form.

LADIES AUXILIARY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH TO MEET—

A regular meeting of the Auxiliary to the Presbyterian church will be held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Oliver Rogers, 523 Everett street.

The layman struggling with the mid-year bills reads that President-elect Hoover will probably tour the West Indies for a rest after his rest in Florida following the picking of his cabinet after his rest on the South American Good Will tour.

The layman, stoking his furnace, doing contortions over the grocery bill, and wondering if he'll get laid off the job with the rest of the boys next week, probably finds all this a bit bewildering and questions just why one needs constant rest from other rest spells.

IT'S THE TRUTH
And yet it's an exaggeration to say that if confronted with Hoover's job, and even if a Hoover himself and hence capable of it, the layman would find himself envying the comparatively simple life he had known as a mere humble laborer, just as Hoover right now probably envies what seems to him the unharassed life of the private citizen.

FAIR PASTURES
Just the old story of "fair pastures looking greener." Perhaps, in proportion to his abilities, each layman has about the same lot with which to contend. While the layman who never travels looks at other people's travels as the embodiment of pleasure, travel can really become something from which to rest for the man who has too much of it. Hotel life, so glamorous to many, is bleak and dismal to the traveling man. And there you are!

MONEY TROUBLE
Police were called to a certain home in a certain city the other night by a shooting. They discovered that a husband had shot his wife, "just to scare her," he explained, because he had just learned that their bank account was not a joint one, as he had believed, but was entirely in her own name.

We hear a great deal about poor, down-trodden women and the shabby deals of finance put over on her, the nickels doled out for home-making needs, with it "up to her" to make up the deficit somehow if five dollars a week can't pay the bills for eight people. But occasionally one catches a glimpse of the fact that women can do their own shabby money stuff pretty well, from rifling pants' pockets to getting house deed in their own names and proceeding to evict papa. The question is, who started it? Do women have to do such things in self defense? I'm inclined to think so.

FILIAL LOVE
Margaret R. Paine, musical director of a school in Kyoto, Japan, is rushing over a journey of more than 7000 miles in order to reach her mother who is dying in Miami, Florida, before it is too late. Perhaps nothing so unusual in that story. We are rather accustomed to our acceptance of the comparative lukewarmness of filial devotion as contrasted with parental. We take it for granted that a parent will dash through fire and water to meet the needs of a child, but it is more surprising when a child feels the same compelling urge towards a parent. We're probably right, too. It is rarer.

ANOTHER FLIGHT
Here's the story of a woman who recently took another kind of a journey, fighting time and space to get away from someone rather than to get to them. Mrs. M. Samson, tramped nearly 50 miles through the icy forests of Quebec the other day in order to get away from her husband. Only 22, she claimed that her 15-year-old blunderbuss, giving her constant blows and all forms of abuse. She walked through the deep snow with no shoes on, only a pair of rubbers.

Just one more man, who hasn't yet learned that women are not property. But authorities into whose hands she fell are sending her back to him just the same. She wants to stay in Quebec and work. They tell her that he is her husband and she must go back. H—m!

Stitch and Chatter Club Was Entertained

The members of the Stitch and Chatter club were delightfully entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. E. Wirth, 325 Douglas avenue. There was an excellent attendance of members, and four new members were accepted. They were Mrs. Mae Howe, Mrs. William F. Eller, Mrs. Charles Lydig and Mrs. C. Holderman. There are now sixteen in the club membership.

The afternoon was a pleasant one, spent in social chat, in listening to radio music and in sewing. Later the hostess served delicious refreshments, the table being gay with spring flowers.

The next meeting of the club will be held with Mrs. William Eller and will be a Valentine meeting.

Cardinal May Be Official Illinois Bird

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Symbolically speaking, adoption of the cardinal as the official bird of Illinois proposed in the general assembly by Rep. James H. Foster of Macomb would about fill the roster of official Illinois things.

The state already has an official tree, flower, nickname, motto, and song. There is also an official holiday unique to Illinois. Here's the list.

Tree—Oak.
Flower—Violet.
Song—"Illinois."
Nickname—Sucker State.
Motto—State Sovereignty, National Union.

Holiday—Indian Day, the last Friday in September.

The cardinal was named as the most popular bird in a poll of school children conducted last spring.

Rep. Foster's bill proposing the official bird, incidentally, is one of the world's shortest legislative proposals. It follows in full:

"A bill for an act designating a state bird.

"Be it enacted by the people of the state of Illinois, represented in the general assembly:

"Section 1. The bird, cardinalis cardinalis commonly known as the "Cardinal," is designated, and shall be known, as the official state bird of the state of Illinois."

The Zion Household Science club was entertained pleasantly Friday, by Mrs. Max Genz at her home in Nelson. Mrs. Joe Geiger of Rock Falls was the assistant hostess. Twenty members were present for the delicious picnic dinner and the meeting afterward. 27. DOING THE OBVIOUS WHEN STRATEGIC PLAY MIGHT WIN

North (Dummy)—

West—
Leads ♠ 6

East—

South (Declarer)—
♠ K J 6
♥ Q J 5
♦ Q J 2
♣ A K Q 5

The bidding: South opens with no-trump and all pass.

Deciding the Play: West leads 6 of clubs, 8 of clubs is played from Dummy and East plays Jack of clubs. What card should Declarer play?

The Error: Declarer takes with the Queen of clubs.

The Correct Method: Declarer should win this trick with Ace of clubs to encourage opponents to continue leading the club suit. By false carding Ace of clubs, East is induced to believe that West holds the King of clubs and the Queen of clubs. Declarer now plays the Queen of diamonds forcing the King of diamonds. Opponents will probably return a club and Declarer will win this trick with King of clubs. The Jack of diamonds is played and Ace of diamonds forced so that the diamonds are established and game is assured. If East had returned a heart instead of a club on the third trick, Declarer would not have framed.

The Principle: "False-card" to encourage opponents to continue a suit.

Foley-Egan Wedding Celebrated

A quiet, yet beautiful wedding took place Jan. 25th at St. Plannen's church in Walnut, Ill., when Miss Eva K. Foley, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Foley, became the bride of George J. Egan, with Rev. Father Causey officiating, using the double ring ceremony.

The bride was lovely in a frock of turquoise blue chiffon georgette over satin, with accessories encoeurment. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses with the rosary entwined.

The bride was attended by Miss Mary Egan, sister of the bridegroom. She was attired in a gown of blue chiffon georgette and carried an arm bouquet of lilies and amilies.

The best man was Raymond Foley, cousin of the bridegroom and he and the bridegroom were handsome in their suits of conventional black.

The altar at St. Plannen's, was decorated with beautiful cut flowers. After the wedding a delicious wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home, where decorations of spring flowers were employed.

A wedding trip was taken by the bride couple to parts undesignated. After they have returned home, they will make their home in Mt. Morris, Ill., where Mr. Egan is employed in the C. B. & Q. depot.

The many friends of the young couple join in extending to them the best of wishes for their happiness in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. Coulter On Way to New York

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Kenneth B. Coulter and his bride, Ruth McConnell Coulter, today were en route to New York.

Miss McConnell, 26 year old Indianapolis art and music student, was married at her parents' home here yesterday to Mr. Coulter, 43, a Clifton Springs, N. Y., capitalist. Their names had been in the news since December when the girl fled from Rochester, N. Y., to San Francisco on fast trains followed in an airplane by a physician apparently commissioned by Coulter.

The mystery which had surrounded their romance from the time conflicting reasons were given for the pursuit of the girl, was maintained until after the wedding ceremony. Then a brief formal statement was given to newspapermen who had attempted unsuccessfully all day to learn the plans of the couple.

The couple was said to have met at Clifton Springs sanitarium about two years ago when both were undergoing treatment there. Coulter has been paralyzed since injury in a football game nearly twenty years ago.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—

Linens Rolls—Heavy cardboard tubes, covered with chintz, gingham or any white material, make useful rolls for table linens.

White Linens—Fine linens, used infrequently, should be kept folded between blue tissue paper to keep it from turning yellow.

Clean Photographs—Photographs can be cleaned by wiping lightly with a piece of old linen dipped in warm ammonia water.

Creaking Chairs—If your rocking chairs creak, rub the under sides of the rockers with yellow soap. Sometimes sandpapering the rockers slightly and then rubbing with a little floor wax is just as efficacious.

Saving Twine—If you wind bits of twine around one of those wooden handles that come atop big packages, it will be easy to get at and will not get tangled.

Milk Pitcher—Some children who refuse to drink their allotted glasses of milk, thoroughly enjoy it if served in a little pitcher with small goblet and allowed to pour it out themselves.

Washing Shields—Wash shields by laying them flat and scrubbing them with a brush dipped in ammonia suds. Rinse by pressing flat between the hands.

Gleaming Windows—Windows may be polished beautifully by rubbing with a cloth wet in alcohol and shining with crepe paper.

Match Marks—If careless members of the family have left match marks on woodwork rub the marks carefully with lemon and then cleanse with warm water in which onions have been boiled.

Leftover Ham—Slice the leftover end of ham about an inch thick. Cover with sliced raw potatoes. Cover with milk, season and bake, adding milk enough to keep moist. This is an excellent cold-weather dish.

Stuffed Apricots—Stuffed apricot salad is as pretty as it is good. Fill the holes of halved canned apricots with cream cheese, nuts and pimento. Serve with a green cherry on top.

Small Portions—Many children are discouraged from eating because they are given too large portions. Cereal is twice as appealing to a child

MILADY TAKES TO METAL CLOTHING—

By NEA Service
London—Clank! Clank! Here comes milady, now. Italian ladies are wearing aluminum brocade and London dancers are saving shoe leather by wearing aluminum shoes.

And that isn't all. All-metal clothing for men and women is a possibility since science has perfected methods of turning sheet metal into pliable, strong, and cheap dress material.

A news note of "all-metal" wear says "flying and motorizing kit made of aluminum, specially impregnated, will be entirely fire-proof and the overcoat may be lined with leather, fur or rubber for special warmth."

PAPAL NUNCIO AT MADRID WOULD BE KILLER'S MARK

Several Shots Fired at Him in Gardens of Royal Palace

London, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Attempted assassination late last evening of the papal nuncio as he walked in the gardens of the Royal Palace at Madrid gave a new aspect today to Spain's political upheaval.

Previous dispatches from Madrid had indicated all but complete suppression of the Tuesday revolt at Ciudad Real, and had told of arrest and impending trial of these held responsible.

It was difficult from this distance and from the scantiness of detail—due to a rigid censorship—to fix the assassination attempt in its proper place in the Spanish political mosaic, but the carefully worded telephonic advice of the incident there was the inference that the shots at the ecclesiastic probably were intended for someone else entirely.

Four shots were fired at the papal "diplomatic representative," believed here to mean the papal nuncio, Monsignor Federico Tedeschi. All of the shots went wild, and in the ensuing confusion the assailant escaped.

Monsignor Tedeschi, who was appointed the Spanish post in 1921, has been an exceedingly friendly terms with King Alfonso and his family and it is believed this friendship may have accounted for his presence in the garden.

FOLLOWING THE DREAM.

A middle-western millionaire has bought a yacht and is on his way to the Pacific ocean to look for a sunken island paradise which was revealed to him in a dream.

Dreams, in themselves, are hardly enough evidence even for rich men. So this man, before buying his yacht, went to California, chartered an airplane, and flew out over that part of the ocean where his dream had told him his island lay buried. Lo! there it was, some 15 or 20 feet below the surface.

So now he's going out in his yacht to give it thorough examination. He plans to build a breakwater all around the place, pump in sand from the bottom of the sea, and make an island vacation spot out of it.

This business of looking for island Edens in the Pacific is not new. The old Spaniards had the idea just as deeply implanted as this modern millionaire. In their day, just as now, it took a good deal of money to go on such an expedition. One had to buy or charter a ship, or a fleet of them, hire crews, lay in a great stock of provisions, get the consent of the king and the blessing of the church—and then sail thousands of miles across almost uncharted seas.

But there was this difference; all of the places the old explorers went looking for were right on the surface. There was no need to build breakwaters and install costly pumping systems. The ocean fairly teemed with islands. A ship simply couldn't miss them. Most of them had never been seen by white men. Any valiant adventurer could take possession of one and leave the life of Europe forever behind him.

Now, of course, they've all been discovered. All that's left to a man who is guided by a vision is to pull up the bottom of the sea, wipe it off and make an island where formerly there was nothing but ocean. It's a lot harder, and the resulting island, being synthetic, can hardly be quite as satisfactory.

However, that's the way it is with nearly everything in this modern world. All of the frontiers have been pushed back. The era of hard facts and automatic machinery is hard to escape.

Just the same, escape is still possible. You have to have resources, of course. Not money; unless you're after a definite, physical place, that won't help. Resources of less tangible form—imagination, character, vision—are what you need.

With them, you can still get away. The seeming limits which modern knowledge have put on the spirit won't bother you. You'll be able to see and go beyond them, knowing that life is still what it was in an earlier, more credulous day—a great, unexplainable mystery, with room for infinite experience of beauty, terror and joy. That remains true, no matter what the glib psycho-literary folks may tell you.

The islands are still there; you just have to go under the surface a little to find them.

THE PAN-AMERICAN HIGHWAY.

The American motorist—which, of course, includes just about all of us—will find his horizon immeasurably widened in the next few years.

The long-talked-of Pan-American Highway, connecting the United States and Canada with the nations of South America, is apparently going to become a reality at last.

The Pan-American Union reports that the scheme finally is emerging from the realm of ideas and entering this blueprint stage. Mexico is now constructing a road that will reach from the Texas border to Guatemala. Surveys are now under way to carry it from that point through Central America and Panama to Colombia. Once it gets that far the nations of South America can be depended on to complete it.

It will be a great thing for the American motorist. Imagine being able to get in your car and start out for Buenos Aires or the land of the Incas! That's what we'll be able to do in the near future.

Eight thousand Chicago bell boys have been asked to organize as a union branch to protect their tips. After they're through with that job the organizers might try teaching West Point graduates how to march.

The Grand Duke Alexander disputes the choice of Russian royalists in Paris who designated Nikita to succeed Nicholas as heir to the throne of Russia. Something like picking the wrong horse after the race has been run.

That new gas that is too terrible even to be used in war—can't the bootleggers make something out of it?

Houdini died too soon. He was just the man for the job of governor of Oklahoma.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tots and Tines played a while. The giant then began to smile. I'm sure the Tinymites, thought he, will get a big surprise. Those Tots will surely play some trick. I know them well, and they are slick. What happens soon is bound to open up the Tinymites eyes.

And then to all the bunch he said, "You little fellows go ahead and have a good time by yourselves. I have some work to do. Out in the fields I'll hoe my corn until I'm feeling quite forlorn. And then, if you are still around, I'll hurry back to you."

"All right," said Scouty. "Have no fear. I'm pretty sure that we'll be here." He didn't know, however, what the queer Tots had in mind. And so the giant walked away. The rest continued with their play. Then one wee Tot said, "Let's look 'round, and see what we can find."

"They rushed into a woods nearby, and soon they all heard one Tot cry,

"Oh, I know where a basket is. It is a big one. The rest of you can wait right here. I'll go and get it. It's right near. Sit down and rest your weary bones. I'll bring it back to you."

The Tot rushed off, but not for long. He came back shouting, "Look! I'm strong. I found the great big basket and it has some dandy wheels. You Tinymites hop right inside. We Tots will take you for a ride. It really looks quite comfortable. Go on, see how it feels."

"You bet we will," brave Clowny cried. "We're always glad to take a ride. I hope we all are tucked with the way the basket goes." The Tinymites then took one jump and reached the basket with a thump. "Where are we bound for?" Copy asked. A Tot snapped, "Goodness knows."

With Honce on His Trip Around State of Illinois

BY CHARLES HONCE

(Associated Press News Editor)

Waukegan, Ill., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Industry, mystery and romance—you will find them all in this modern city of 35,000 overlooking the blue waters of Lake Michigan.

Industry is represented by a hundred manufactures, the mystery surrounds the first settlement here for which History has no key, and the romance concerns the movies, for they will tell you, Waukegan was the first Hollywood.

"Waukegan," to quote from a local historian, "prides itself on a fascinating and mysterious background. The name alone, Waukegan—a Pottawatomie word meaning 'Little Fort'—lends an air of romance. In tracing the development of Waukegan, a lost chapter in Illinois history is uncovered."

"Maps dating back to the Revolutionary period show two outposts on the lower rim of Lake Michigan. One of these approximates the present-day location of Chicago; the other, about 40 miles north, is designated 'Little Fort.'

"Extensive research has definitely shown that Little Fort was situated on the north bank of a deep ravine which pierces the heart of Waukegan today. Its east face was almost at the top of the bluff overlooking the Lake's deep blue waters."

"Waukegan earliest settlers found rotted and caved-in ruins of what had once been a fort. Digging into these ruins they turned up pieces of metal, buttons, buckles and other objects indicative of civilized man."

"That is the chapter unexplained by historians. The identity and fate of the garrison is unknown. It is possible that the men were Jesuits who preceded even LaSalle and Father Marquette in 1700. All that is definite is that a fort once stood there. Indians knew the location and called it Waukegan—'Little Fort.'"

So much for history and its fascinating conjectures. Now move the clock ahead a couple of centuries and the curtain rises on a modern scene fully as fascinating and romantic.

The date is October 1895, the scene is the Phoenix Opera House and the impresario is George K. Spoor. Hundreds of persons have flocked to the "opera house" in answer to Spoor's announcement that he has a machine that will make "pictures move." The pictures are little more than shadowy forms cast on a linen sheet, but to Waukeganites, they provided the first motion picture show.

The machine used by Spoor was invented by Ed Amet. Amet was not alone in the field and later litigation discouraged the inventor, but Spoor went right ahead eventually to become one of the leaders in the new industry.

Incidentally, if you are looking for two of the earliest actresses of the screen—they are living right here in Waukegan. In one of those early films they were found banging away at one another with boxing gloves. One of these first screen heroines was Miss Bess Bower, now Mrs. B. T. Dunn, and the other was Miss Isabel Spoor, now Mrs. A. W. Rodgers. Who remembers that boxing scene?

The old opera house had gone the way of all old time opera houses. In its place has come a million dollar movie palace.

Waukegan has made tremendous strides in the last few years. It has outgrown the last government census like a small boy outgrowing short pants. Its "loop" is filled with new buildings, some of them in the skyscraper class, and, according to D. M. Noyes, one of the publishers of the Waukegan Daily Sun a member of the Associated Press, the city faces a future that will clinch for it the name of "the Hub of the North Shore."

New industries are in the offing, a twelve story hotel has just been completed, a new city hall and post office are on the building docket and attention is called to $3,000,000 spent on public improvement alone during the last year.

Waukegan and its neighbor, North Chicago, are in that long queue of Lake Michigan cities stretching in an almost unbroken line from Indiana to Wisconsin. It has a fine natural harbor in which, it is recalled, thousands of settlers disembarked in the 1830's to make their way to the fertile inland country. In those days land sold at $1.25 an acre, which would hardly pay a spade of dirt in downtown Waukegan today.

Wheat came in quantities from those early farms. It moved into Waukegan for lake transportation over "a road paved with solid oak boards which extended west across the Des Plaines and Fox rivers. Old residents still refer to it as the 'plank road.' Where once was wood now is concrete and steel rail, for Waukegan is located on three railroads and four state highways and in addition is a port of call for packet steamers.

And of course as befits a modern city, it has acres of parks, playgrounds and golf courses and is near neighbor to three scenic inland lakes. To the north lies Zion, home of the Christian Catholic Apostolic Church founded by James Alexander Dowie, to the south are Great Lakes Naval Training Station and Fort Sheridan, while directly west is Mundelein, where the Catholic church has built a $12,000,000 seminary.

Some day Waukegan and North Chicago will unite and then Uncle Sam will have to move the new city up a few notches in the Illinois census column. They virtually form one city now in economic and social interest.

OBITUARY

DR. WM. PETERSMEYER

Dr. William Petersmeyer was born March 22 1871, at Cedar Lake, Lake County, Indiana, and passed away Monday morning, January 28th, at the age of 57 years, 10 months and six days.

When a mere child his parents moved to Sac county, Iowa, where they engaged in farming. Here, he united in 1884 with the German Methodist church. He was a lover of music and assisted with his talent in both the Methodist and Presbyterian churches of Odebolt, Iowa. He received his early education in the Odebolt high school. Taking up the study of pharmacy at Highland Park, Des Moines, Iowa, he passed the state board, after which he and his brother engaged in the drug business. Disposing of the store, William entered the medical department of the University of Iowa, at Iowa City, receiving his degree from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in Chicago, Illinois, in 1898.

He practiced his profession in Denison, Iowa, for a short time, returning, however, in the fall of 1899 to the state of his Alma Mater, where he continued his life work, until his death on January 28th, at Ashton, Illinois.

He was a member of the Lee County Medical Association, Illinois State Medical Society and was eligible to Fellowship in the American College of Surgeons. But he was a man devoted to his life work, for the good he could do fellowmen, rather than seek empty honors. He was a member of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, Lodge No. 770, Dixon, Ill., etc.

He leaves to mourn his passing a devoted wife, four brothers, six sisters, other near relatives, and a host of loving friends.

His sister, Mrs. J. A. Roland, of Missouri, Iowa, and G. W. Parks brother-in-law, of Eldora, Iowa, were at his bedside at the time of his death.

THE WINTER ARTIST

Jack Frost is an artist of marvelous mien. In winter his wonderful paintings are seen. He stealthily steals around nipping your nose, Or tangles your fingers and freezes your toes. He coats every twig with kimono of ice. No object he misses—his work is precise—

The houses and barns, all the bushes and hedge. The wires and the fences, the ground, and the sedge.

The great, glassy crystal stalactite he hangs. While whistling west winds unfetter their fangs;

And over the depths of the soft serene snow He spreads a robe, as the bitter blasts blow.

All over my windows his brushes he plies, And paints giant trees reaching up toward the skies. No summer-time artist possesses the knack Like gelid Jehovah, the one we call Jack.

Good Thoughts for Good People

The tender promises of peace and protection found in the Bible have for centuries sustained those who have trusted in them through countless dangers. We need to bring our thinking into obedience to God; and as we do so, we shall find that we are blessed by His ever operative law.

Capt. George Fried, heroic rescuer, says: "Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet."

"AN S.O.S. from the 'Florida'! We change our course. We on the 'America' strain to arrive in time to rescue the men on their sinking ship, 350 miles away. Through the icy, freezing storm and high seas we plunge on—all speed ahead! Then the night-time rescue, the search lights, the whirling waves, the manoeuvring to get near the 'Florida'. Finally, the 'Florida's' crew coming off one at a time, pulling themselves through the water on the line our men had thrown them.

"These 32 men, dazed, many half clothed, needed reviving after their long exposure. Hot coffee, food and Lucky Strikes—these gave new life to many of them and we on board the 'America', crew and passengers alike, found after the strain and struggle that there was nothing quite so comforting and relaxing as the inviting, toasted flavor of Lucky Strikes.

"Playing this game with 'Davy' is ever fascinating, ever thrilling. And we who follow the sea must be ever ready for adventure. Ours is an active life, demanding nerve control and physical fitness. In my health program I have found that Luckies are most important not only because they provide a respite for frazzled nerves and an exhausted body but because whenever I crave anything which is over-fattening, I say to myself, 'Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet'. In the toasted flavor of Luckies, I get complete satisfaction. And I find that toasting, by removing the irritants, protects my throat."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during the year 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This surely confirms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

Wash clothes in water softened with Melo—save 1/3 to 1/2 the usual amount of soap

CLOTHES washed in hard water are hard to get clean. The hardness in the water combines with the soap and makes scum. The scum collects dirt. It gets into the fabric of the clothes. No amount of rinsing can get it all out.

But soften hard water with Melo and there isn't any scum. The water makes wonderful suds. Melo saves from 1/3 to 1/2 the amount of soap ordinarily used. With or without soap, water softened with Melo is a wonderful cleaner. Get it at your grocer's.

THE INAUGURAL PAGEANT

From Washington to Hoover

BY ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
(Associated Press Feature Writer)
Washington—(AP)—The inauguration of James Monroe, political disciple of Jefferson and last of the great Virginians to be called to the presidency in the early days of the republic, was held outdoors for the first time in Washington.

He took the oath of office March 4, 1817, on a portico erected for the occasion in front of the capitol. The press of the day ascribed two reasons for the change in arrangements—fear that the building was not strong enough to hold the vast assemblage and a quarrel between the house and the senate over the distribution of seats in the house of representatives, where the ceremony was customarily held.

In contrast with the modern inaugural tradition of wretched weather, the mildness and radiance of the day cast a brilliant hue on the complexion of the entire ceremony. A contemporary newspaper account of the ceremony says:

"Such a concourse never before was seen in Washington, the number of persons present being estimated at from 5,000 to 8,000. There was no accident during the day, notwithstanding the magnitude of the assemblage.

"The ceremonies were simple, but grand, animating and impressive. The administration of the oath by Chief Justice Marshall was announced by a single gun and followed by salutes from the navy yard, a battery from Fort Warburton and several pieces of artillery on the grounds. Ladies as well as gentlemen, foreign officers, strangers and citizens were in the great concourse."

The restoration of the executive mansion, the "elegant edifice" burned by the British army in 1814, was completed and the White House was opened to the public for the first time at a reception January 1, 1818.

The Monroes possessed wealth and social distinction, and in the diplomatic service had cultivated a taste for the luxuries of European courts. To furnish the White House, the president had imported furniture and decorations of the Empire style. The great crowd at the reception marveled at the grandeur of the new mansion with its rich French furnishings, exquisite China and heavy silver plate.

The first lady, Eliza Kortright Monroe, daughter of a New York society man and former British army officer, was described as being "thoroughly schooled in the social graces of the period." A New Year's reception at the president's residence is portrayed in a contemporary letter written by a Mrs. Tuley of Virginia: "Mr. Monroe was standing near the door and as we were introduced we had the honor of shaking hands with him and passing the usual congratulations. My impressions of Mr. Monroe are very pleasing. He is tall and well formed; his dress plain and in the old style—small clothes, silk hose, knee buckles and pumps fastened with buckles.

"We passed on and were presented to Mrs. Monroe and her daughters, Mrs. Hay and Mrs. Gouverneur. Mrs. Monroe's manner is very gracious and she is a regal looking lady. Her dress was superb black velvet, neck and arms bare and beautifully formed. Her hair in puffs, and dressed high on the head and ornamented with white ostrich plumes; around her neck an elegant pearl necklace. Though no longer young, she is still a very handsome woman.

"All the lower rooms were opened and they were warmed by great fires of hickory wood, and with the handsome brass andirons and fenders quite reminded me of our grand old fires in Virginia. Wine was handed about in wine glasses on large silver salvers, by colored waiters dressed in dark livery, gilt buttons, etc. I suppose some of them must have come from Mr. Monroe's old family seat, Oak Hill, Virginia."

A newspaper of the period thus describes the "motely throng" at the weekly drawing held by the Monroes: "The secretaries, senators, foreign ministers, auditors, accountants, officers, farmers, merchants, parsons, lawyers, auctioneers and notaries—all with their wives and some with their gawky offspring—crowd to the President's house every Wednesday evening; some in shoes, most in boots and many in spurs; some snuffing, others chewing and many longing for their cigars and whisky punch left at home. Some with powdered heads, others frizzled and oiled, with those heads a comb has never touched, half hid by dirty collars, reaching far above their ears, as stiff as pasteboard."

STEWART NEWS

Stewart—The Standard Bearer's Society will meet Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Willa Carter.

The new membership drive for the church is being put on this week. Monday evening, lunch was served in the basement of the church. Rev. Mullens of Lee, Rev. Board and Rev. Nazarene of Rochelle were present to assist the pastor and those who are making these house to house visits. There are a number of workers in the field. Rev. J. C. Spencer of DeKalb and Rev. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Waters southwest of Stewart on Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock when their daughter Pauline became the bride of Mr. Bert White. Rev. Warrn Hutchinson of Compton officiating. After a short trip the couple will be at home at Hinsdale, Ill. John Winterton is the owner of a new Ford sedan.

Miss Ethel Bates was given a surprise Saturday evening at the home of her sister, Mrs. Claude Herrmann.

A men's meeting will be held at the school gym Monday evening, refreshments will be served and games will be played.

A picture show was shown Sunday evening entitled "The Go-Getter." It was very interesting and instructive as well. Next Sunday evening the picture to be shown is on the life of Martin Luther, the hardships of those days and many things connected with the church in that day and is said to be fine and a very expensive picture. Rev. M. C. Kelvey has been able to get this picture for the offering that will be taken at the time and should be a liberal one. A full house is desired.

BIBLE VS. BOOZE

Illinois Students Not Irreligious

Urbana, Ill.—(AP)—Indicating that modern college students are not irreligious, 9,604 out of the 12,150 students registered at the University here and in Chicago have some definite church affiliation, it was announced here today.

Approximately forty different denominations are represented in the student body.

Out of the entire number of student church members, the Methodist Episcopal church leads, having a membership of 2,458. The Presbyterian denomination is second with 1,393, and the Roman Catholic third with 1,129.

So important has religious activities become about the university that three foundations have been built: Wesley, the Methodist Episcopal; St. Johns, the Roman Catholic; and St. Mary's Chapel, the first unit of the Episcopal. McKinley Memorial Presbyterian Church will form the nucleus of the Presbyterian foundation, work on which was started just before cold weather set in.

The university is prohibited by law from teaching any secular religious courses and for that reason the various denominations have seen fit to build social centers and schools near the campus for the students of their particular sect. Some university credit is given for work done in these schools.

Captain Found Sinking Ship; Chief Officer Saved Its Men

Hero of the epic rescue of the 32 men of the freighter Florida, Captain George Fried, master of the S. S. America, is pictured above with the radio compass which he used in locating the sinking vessel. Following the direction indicated by the position it had given. Under the glare of the America's searchlight, a lifeboat was lowered into the mountainous seas. It was commanded by Chief Officer Harry Manning, center, who, with a crew of eight volunteers, effected the thrilling night rescue. Mrs. Anne Manning of New York, mother of the chief officer, is shown at the right, as she read a cable telling of her son's heroism. Below is an artist's conception of the scene, as, one by one, the exhausted crew of the Florida hauled themselves along a rope to the safety of the lifeboat.

"FIRST MEDICINE TO EVER GIVE ME REAL BENEFITS"

Great New Herbal Gly-Cas a Surprise to Mrs. Pelton
After 15 Years of Stomach Misery.

"I have tried all kinds of medicines in the past 15 years but never in all that time and out of all those different medicines did I ever find one to come up to Gly-Cas." This remarkable statement comes from Mrs. Emma Pelton, well-known and

THE GLY-CAS MAN.

Mrs. Emma Pelton, well-known and respected lady who lives at 211 First Ave., Clinton, Iowa.

"My troubles all began with a disordered stomach," Mrs. Pelton continued. "Gas formations affected my heart, causing shortness of breath. It was absolute labor for me to walk at times and I was so weak and without strength that any kind of exertion would seem to wear me out. My feet and ankles would swell and sharp pains would strike in my limbs."

"As I said, I tried all kinds of preparations in the past 15 years but of them all, Gly-Cas is the only one that ever gave me real benefits and I did not have to take a half dozen boxes to get them, either. I tell you, this medicine really surprised me. My stomach disorders are all gone now and the aches and pains in my limbs as well and I just seem as strong as ever. I am simply like a new person, that's all there is to it, and I think it is wonderful to regain that normal feeling of health again after putting in years of distress and suffering before."

Gly-Cas is sold in Dixon at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, 502 Franklin Grove, G. S. Ives; Polo, C. R. Clothier; Ashton, G. R. Charters; Ambly, Aschenbrenner Drug; Compton, W. H. Hills; Rochelle, Barker & Sullivan and by leading druggists in all surrounding towns.—Adv.

THE BLACK PIGEON

© 1929 By NEA Service, Inc. BY ANNE AUSTIN

RUTH LESTER was grateful for the errands to bank and station which "Handsome Harry" Borden had given her to do, for they gave her an opportunity to review, in undisturbed ecstasy, the miracle which had happened to her. In a jaunty little brown hat, against which the newly released golden curls clung like sprays of delicate embroidery, her new nutria coat wrapped snugly about her small body, her blue eyes unobscured by the hideous spectacles, she stepped into the elevator which was directly across the hall from the Borden offices.

Micky Moran, the jolly, impudent, red-headed lord of the elevator cage, did not recognize in the pink and white and gold little beauty the timid secretary who had been a daily passenger for the last four months. His bold eyes took her in at a glance, then he began to whistle significantly: "Yes, sir, that's my baby!"

Just before the elevator reached a ground floor, Ruth asked, in the hesitant, meek voice which had been part of her "disguise": "Is your father recovering from that awful automobile accident, Micky?"

Before the astonished boy could reply, Ruth, laughing at him over her furred shoulder, stepped into the lobby.

"Vain little imp!" she characterized herself as a guest of January wind tugged at her coat. "But oh, I'm so glad I can be at last! Four months of being someone else! But worth it, worth it, worth it!" she chanted under her breath, as she joined the Saturday morning shoppers who milled about the busy corner.

It was uncanny how accurately Benny Smith had diagnosed the absurd situation which had made a disguise necessary. Perfect blond beauty had been a pleasant position, one which would some day bring her great happiness, she had thought, so long as her father had been alive to shield her.

She had been as proud of him as he of her, for Colby Lester had been one of the greatest criminal lawyers of his day—a criminal lawyer whose greatness lay in his keenness as a detective rather than in jury-swaying oratory. During the last five years of his life he had talked over all his cases with his daughter. Many a night they had sat up until dawn, Ruth curbed kitten-wise in his arms, her childish brows knit, amusingly, in the same fashion as his, her logical mind keeping pace with his and sometimes leaping ahead of it.

"GOOD work, infant! You've got the makings of a Grade A detective behind those yellow curls. But please God, you'll never have to earn your living in any such sordid fashion as this," he had told her once.

A dignified home, exquisite clothes, servants who adored Colby Lester and his daughter, private school, association with keen and cultured minds—all these things Ruth had enjoyed until Colby Lester's sudden, tragic death.

He had been defending a woman on the charge of poisoning her lover, a married man, and had been shot down by the crazed widow of the victim because she had believed that Colby Lester would win the defendant's freedom for her. And he had, although his funeral took place while the jury was bringing in its just verdict of "Not guilty."

Even now Ruth could scarcely understand why there had been so little for her when her father's estate was settled. But his books showed that he had defended more penniless victims of tragic circumstance than wealthy ones, because their cases presented problems which intrigued him.

She had used what little money there was to take an eight months secretarial course, and had come out of business college primed with all sorts of useful knowledge, her little fingers capable of astonishing speed in shorthand and typing.

But men had not let her do it. As Benny Smith, the office boy, had guessed, the wives of the married men she had tried to work for had been the worst.

It was a motion picture, finally, which pointed a way out of her difficulty. Out of work, she had gone forlornly into a movie theater in an effort to forget her rather absurd troubles. And she had seen, on the screen, a timid, mousey, homely little secretary with skinned-back hair, ill-fitting clothes and horn-rimmed spectacles, suddenly transform herself into a beauty, so that she might win her employer's love.

The next day a mouse-like, timid little creature, with golden hair pulled tightly into a hard, unbending knot on her neck, eyebrows jerked back into a scared-rabbit expression, blue eyes obscured and drained of their color by enormous yellow-lens, horn-rimmed spectacles, a longish, ill-fitting dark dress belting her lovely small figure, had presented herself at the offices of Henry P. Borden, who had advertised for a secretary.

Sometimes it had been cruelly hard to keep her pose and her deliberately achieved homeliness, for Ruth found, to her surprise and disgust, that she missed the admiring glances of men and women who passed her in the street. And those months had been the loneliest she had ever spent, for in all that time no man had asked her for a "date"—except Jack Hayward.

Ruth drew a deep breath of joy. The palm of recalling the past had been wiped out by the ecstasy of arriving inevitably at Jack Hayward's name. Her little high-heeled pumps clicked a staccato accompaniment to her joy, as she turned in at the bank. Reaching into the big inside pocket of her fur coat she retrieved her spectacles, straddled her small nose with them, so that the teller could recognize her and make no difficulty about cashing Borden's check.

In the street again, on her way to the station to buy two tickets and a drawing-room for Harry Borden, and the woman he was to take to Winter Haven with him, Ruth had five more precious minutes in which to review her strange romance.

SHE laughed softly as she remembered how she must have looked in her "disguise," leaning out of the window opening upon the air shaft, coaxing the black pigeon to her with crumbs held invitingly in the hollow of her palm.

But Jack Hayward, who had been watching, had not laughed. He had smiled, that tender, whimsical smile which was so dear a part of him. And she had smiled, forgetting for the moment that the dimly must be sternly repressed.

Two days later, when she was feeding the whole greedy flock with crumbs sprinkled upon the window ledge, Jack Hayward had tried to lure them away from her, with crumbs of his own.

Then one day he had appeared at the elevator—not the elevator in his wing of the building, but at the one across the hall from Harry Borden's offices. She could hear him now, see the dancing light in his bronze-brown eyes, the whimsical quirk to his mouth, as he had said:

"I wonder if you'll let me lunch with you, Miss Lester, so I can find where you get such potent bread crumbs. My greatest ambition in life is to have that black pigeon eating out of my hand, too."

It was during that first luncheon of theirs that Ruth's resolve was made. For Jack Hayward had talked to her as no man since her father's death had talked—as if she had a mind worthy of his; as if she were something more than a beautiful little scrap of femininity made to be gobbled up by a man.

"I won't show him the outside me until he has a chance to learn and love the inside me," Ruth resolved, and trembled lest the great experiment should fail. For she already loved him—the outside and the inside of him. What if he should only like and feel congenial with her mind, and fall, because of her disguise, to love her as a man must love the woman he marries?

"OH!" Ruth came to herself with a start, and smiled at the ticket agent. She had not even realized that she had arrived at the station. "Two roundtrip tickets and a drawing-room for Winter Haven, please. The 2:15 train for this afternoon."

"What is the name?" the ticket agent asked briskly, though his eyes drank in her loveliness gratefully. "We have to keep a record of drawing-room reservations." "It is for Mr. Borden—Ruth corrected herself hastily. "Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Borden."

The ticket agent raised his eyebrows at her slip, then gave her a long, significant glance, in which there was a little astonishment.

As she turned back toward the Starbridge Building, her errands accomplished, she wondered who "Mrs. Borden" would be—this time. And she shivered a little, and was glad that it was not she. Soon such sordid things would not touch her, for she would be Jack Hayward's wife, Mrs. John Carrington Hayward! But oddly enough, she shivered again, and wondered if she were taking cold.
